Associate DevOps Engineer

Overview

The Associate DevOps Engineer will work closely with the Lead DevOps Engineer, and is responsible for streamlining IT operations across company & customer systems. This includes analyzing current development & release processes, identifying improvement opportunities, automating build/configuration/release solutions, and designing/implementing/validating solutions for Continuous Integration & Improvement.

The primary goal of this position is to automate IT processes to keep the company and its customers focused on the core competencies of medical outcomes data management & common business objectives, leaving the provisioning, configuration & release of applications/services as automated as possible.

Other Responsibilities

- Work with application teams to identify operational requirements
- Make application/systems architecture recommendations
- Perform code quality reviews
- Assist the sales team with technical support/consulting as needed (helping with customer security assessments and RFPs).

Requirements

This position requires the ability to interact, develop, engineer, and communicate collaboratively at the highest technical levels with peers, partners, vendors, and company leadership as well as strong knowledge of computer/network security best-practices as well as HIPAA regulations, as they relate to storing, processing, and transmitting Protected Health Information.

Qualifications

- Bachelors/Masters Degree in Computer Science/Engineering or related field
- Excellent troubleshooting and problem-solving skills
- Experience designing, developing, testing, and deploying software applications/systems
- Solid understanding of computer security and networking concepts
- Solid understanding of Functional Programming and IT Automation
- Demonstrated ability to proactively analyze and interpret complex problems/processes, identify requirements, and develop solutions to those problems
- Experience consuming services from a cloud-based provider, such as Amazon Web Services

Benefits

- Company paid comprehensive Health, Dental and Vision Insurance
- Paid time off starting at 14 days/year plus 9 paid holidays
- We promote work/life balance with a positive working environment
- Simplified Employee Pension (SEP) Plan with a Flexible Spending Account (tax advantaged financial account)

Employment Type

Full-time

Seniority Level

Entry

Our Mission: To improve outcomes and the quality of care through innovative software, making clinical data meaningful and actionable.